

TRISHA ROSS

NextGen Ministry Leader

Meet the Team

Trisha and Justin have four boys: one in Phoenix, one in Ohio, one currently at The Fort, and their youngest, a junior at Bayfield High School.

The two met while attending college in Missouri and have been married for 25 years.

With her infectious enthusiasm and deep commitment to raising up the next generation, Trisha is ready to step into this new season of leadership with energy and faith.

Help us welcome Trisha Ross to this new role!

Trisha now oversees ministry from birth through young adulthood, continuing a lifelong passion for investing in the next generation. She has spent years working with children, teens, and young adults, and knows the power of faith to transform lives and families.

Having served as the gKids Ministry Leader for the past three years, she is excited to expand her leadership to guide and support young people at every stage of their journey. With 25 years of ministry experience alongside her husband, Justin, Trisha has worked with high school students, college students, and young married couples. She understands the unique challenges and opportunities of these life stages and is passionate about equipping young people with a strong foundation of faith.

Trisha is a seasoned leader with extensive experience overseeing teams, organizing big events, and bringing vision to life. Whether managing volunteers, coordinating events, or mentoring young leaders, she thrives in empowering others. And she's not afraid to use her cheerleading skills — literally and figuratively — to champion people toward their goals and encourage them to step into their calling.
